

Recommends hydropower plant

Generation of electricity at the Alton area lock and dam replacement facility is a step nearer reality. The force of Mississippi River water would be used to create the power.

The Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers reviewing agency in Port Belvoir, Va., has just commented on its review of "Lock and Dam 26 (Replacement)". Hydropower, Illinois and Missouri.

The board concurred in the findings and recommendations of the St. Louis district engineer and the Lower Mississippi Valley division engineer for modifying the project to provide generation of hydroelectric power.

The proposal consists of a powerhouse in the headgate section of the new dam, power generating facilities with an effective installed capacity of 114 megawatts, headrace and tailrace channels, and a switchboard.

Construction cost, including the cost of transmission lines, is estimated at $297,182,000, the Press-Record was told Wednesday.

The board believes that development of the low-head hydropower potential at the Lock and Dam 26 (Replacement), site north of Granite City would be consistent with national energy policy, which encourages a broadened mix of energy sources.

It would also assist in meeting increasing energy needs in an economical and environmentally acceptable manner, using renewable domestic resources, the board said.

It concludes that the report essentially complies with applicable policies and guidelines.

The State of Missouri, while not favoring non-federal development of hydropower at the replacement site, believes that non-federal development should be preferred.

The State of Illinois' view is that the project should be developed by non-federal interests.

The board recognized that preference for hydropower development should be given to non-federal interests in accordance with the Administration's policy, but also says that it would be consistent under this policy to require non-federal interests to develop the potential of the site within a reasonable time limit before a federal project was initiated.

Therefore, the board concluded that authorization of hydropower facilities for federal implementation would be appropriate at this time, and that "such authorization should be without prejudice to completion of action on a permit issued or license application under consideration by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission at the time of authorization."

The board feels that such conclusions represents a reasonable accommodation of the positions and interests of the states of Missouri and Illinois and the nation with respect to hydropower development here.

The board recommended that the proposed plan be authorized for federal implementation, subject to cost-sharing and financing arrangements satisfactory to the president and Congress.

Rate hike clears 1st vote

By GEORGEANN MCGEE of the Press-Record

The Granite City Council has approved the first of two needed votes on its proposed 52 percent hike in the city property tax levy. A $9.5 million combined general fund and ambulance service budget also got an initial nod.

In two weeks, aldermen are expected to take the final vote on the levy and budget ordinances, following a scheduled 7 p.m. public hearing July 19 at the Granite City Township Hall, 2080 Delmar Ave. A special city council meeting to discuss the budget will begin 7 p.m. Tuesday, July 12, at city hall.

The proposed tax levy represents a 52 percent increase from the current $1.37 per $100 assessed valuation for local properties to $2.09 per $100. Properties are assessed at one-third market value for taxing purposes.

The hike would raise levy revenues from $2.34 million to $3.93 million. The added funds will not reach the city treasury until the 1984-85 fiscal year, due to the time lag between the levy and collection processes.

Only three aldermen voted against the initial budget and levy reading. First Ward Alderman Casmer Skubish, Fourth Ward Alderman Sharon S. Perjak and Seventh Ward Alderman Paul R. Bowler, Skubish to council members they could hold down the tax rate to "much lower figure" by increasing future budgets only for inflation and spending emergencies. He suggested a four percent levy increase as a check.

"There's less money left in the people's pocket...less money to stimulate the economy," Skubish said of effects of higher taxes.

The aldermen did not respond, however, when Second Ward Alderman Fred "Pat" Schuman, finance chairman, asked where cuts could be made in the budget to lower the anticipated higher levy.

The council as a whole apparently had no answer either to Schuman's numerous questions Tuesday night for budget reduction suggestions.

The finance chairman said some prior ideas have been offered to cut some items, but added, together "they don't make a dent in the budget," he said.

"We (the committee members) are willing to talk about any cuts you want to make...but I don't see realistically how you're going to do it," Schuman told his fellow aldermen.

Schuman called the upcoming levy proposal a difficult decision for his committee to make, but said that the three-man finance committee is solidly behind both the proposed budget and levy. Other members are Third Ward Alderman Carl Kuttel and Fifth Ward Alderman Jake Varadian.

The finance chairman cited the higher figures this year as a means to avoid future borrowing or soften deficit budgets. "We ran a deficit budget last year and we'll run a deficit budget this year," Schuman said.

First Ward Alderman Everett Morien said the council should finally acknowledge the inevitability of raising taxes this year. "If you give raises to workers, you're going to have to raise taxes," Morien said. "We are going to have to grit our teeth."

In the second round of budget discussions Tuesday, Mrs. Perjak briefly discussed reducing the city's part-time legal staff members from four to two. Her suggestion is expected to be considered before final budget passage.

In other council business, Dorothy Robles, representative of the Mexican Honorary Commission received permission for the lounge to erect a sign identifying the club. It is located at 1801 Spruce St.

Mrs. Robles was accompanied to the Tuesday council session by several other members of the organization.

The city engineering department last week asked the MHC to take down a sign advertising beer. The sign was erected without a city permit. Mrs. Robles said her organization was not aware that a permit was necessary before erecting a sign in the city.

The council asked that the selling of beer to the public at the club and the sign be investigated after aldermen were presented a petition by neighbors protesting both situations.

Budget is based on doubled sewer bills

A tentative $2.5 million Granite City Wastewater Treatment Plant budget is based on $26 quarterly residential charges, double the current $13 per quarter rate.

A special pollution plant committee meeting to consider new rates will begin at 5:15 p.m. Monday at the city hall office of Comptroller Joseph Miklovic.

Committee chairman Paul Fisk of the Third Ward said the committee expects to stay as close as possible to the $26 example rate charges recommended in an independent engineering study of plant operations.

The chairman said he has heard members discuss an alternate $16 per quarter fee, but said that rate would mean more than $600,000 would have to be taken from the city's general budget to make up for a shortage of revenue to the plant due to a lower rate.

"You're just going to have to be prepared for this (rate increase)," Fisk told aldermen at Tuesday night's city council meeting. He contends the council can no longer delay raising sewer rates. The council has been studying the possibility of increasing residential and commercial fees for more than a year.

The latest $2.5 million budget represents a slash of about $500,000 from an initial $3 million budget considered June 1.

According to a joint statement given by the pollution committee, members have met several times over the last two months considering the proposed fiscal year 1983-84 budget, and the $2.5 million budget is the result of their final review.

According to a budget statement by Terrance McMillan, plant superintendent, the new budget conforms to all the requirements of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (IEPA). The state environmental control agency recently released a list of repairs it expects to be undertaken at the plant.

Alderman Fisk cited severe roof problems at the wastewater plant that have had to be ignored in the past due to a shortage of funds as one reason aldermen should support the proposed plant budget. At a recent council meeting, McMillan showed aldermen buckling rails from an apparently defective bridge at the plant to demonstrate the need for capital expense funds. The IEPA could take legal action to force the repairs, McMillan warned.

The budget also contains provisions to support plant bond reserves that the council has "never funded before," according to Fisk. A city law currently requires those reserves, but that law has not been observed.

College sign-ups exceed forecasts

By BILL WINTER of the Press-Record

Granite City college enrollment is occurring at a record pace, Provost Frank Gornick said Tuesday.

Credit hours totaled 10,000 at Belleville Area College's 1982-83 local centers, the Washington School daytime program and the South High night center, during the past 12 months.

Already, fall credit hour enrollment at the new two-year Granite City Center, formerly North High, has topped 5,100 credit hours and the grand total for 1983-84 seems headed for 20,000 hours or more, Dr. Gornick told Granite City Rotarians at a luncheon at the YM-CAY.

During June, GC Center "month," the number of local credit hours requested for this fall (the term starts Aug. 22) nearly doubled from the previous 2,900 tally.

Registration is continuing from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Thursdays and from 5 a.m. to 4 p.m. Fridays at the Granite City Center.

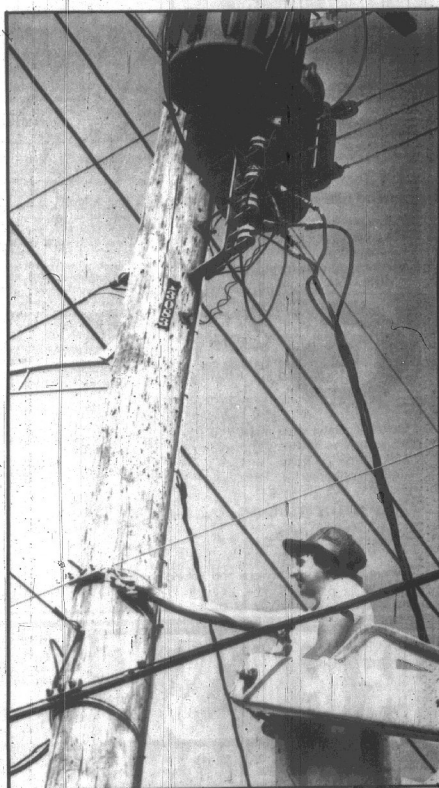

The GCC provost praised the Granite City Board of Education, including

Unauthorized city hirings questioned

By GEORGEANN MCGEE of the Press-Record

City hiring practices were questioned Tuesday after aldermen received a memo showing two summer engineering department employees were put to work one week before their council confirmation.

The issue has been termed a misunderstanding by Mayor Paul Schuler and City Engineer Monroe Brewer, while one council member called the hirings an "around the block" approach taken to cover a hiring plan that failed.

Indirectly involved are the rules and hiring procedures for youths in the Schools automate fiscal data, checks

By BILL WINTER of the Press-Record

Newly-automated records of the Granite City schools will give administrators and board members faster financial information, and something more, Norman S. Owca told the board Tuesday night.

By providing a wide variety of up-to-the-minute statistical comparisons, the computerized data can expedite managerial decisions for greater economy and efficiency, the District Nine finance director said.

The district converted totally to computer procedures with the start of the new fiscal year July 1. Most of Tuesday night's special Board of Education meeting was devoted to an explanation by Owca and to a question-and-answer session by him and the board. Several other administrators sat in on the discussion.

"Our new data processing accounting system will create improvements within our existing system in relation to staffing, organization, policies and procedures," Owca related. "Some of the immediate improvements will be:

1. "It will show symptoms which will create the possibility to quickly correct any revenue-cost imbalances.
2. "It will be more responsive to state and federal reporting systems.
3. "Our reporting will be more timely, accurate and consistent.
4. "We will eliminate duplication of effort in financial data collection.
5. "There will be no need to manually prepare checks for payments of invoices and bills."

Owca said twice-monthly bill lists and yearly expenditure compilations will be produced on computer print-outs rather than on typewriters. Types of school checks will be reduced to two—payroll and accounts payable.

To make possible brief summaries, school fiscal transactions were categorized in a way that will produce a monthly 299-page report, each page being 11x15 inches in size.

It was decided to routinely provide five-page reports on each fund. When requested to give further details on a particular topic, Owca will refer to the more comprehensive data.

Assigned serial numbers will enable clerks to pinpoint an item by use of five digits. Computers will be guided by these five numbers to 40-digit codes, consisting of ten levels of four numbers each.

The ten levels are: the type of account, the fund to which it belongs, the source of money for each transaction, the location where it occurred, the balance sheet number, the expense number, the type of expense, a more detailed expense description, the instructional subject area and the administrator responsible for an expenditure.

Records currently total 763. In the same order of levels noted above, the computer listings total six, 16, 46, 36, 251, 233, eight, 143, 24 and an as yet unspecified number of administrators.

Owca said he hopes to avoid use of any "miscellaneous" designations and stressed that "we have nothing to hide."

It will be possible to know at any time how much has been budgeted, expended and encumbered and how much of the budgeted amount remains unspent in each account. The 1983-84 budget will be much more detailed than the 1982-83 budget, Owca said.

Board members praised the planning and said they are looking forward to the initial reports. Copies viewed Tuesday night contained theoretical figures only, since the new year is just starting.

Mark J. Seago, 25, of 2905 Madison Ave., was arrested on a complaint signed by his wife alleging battery following an incident during the weekend. He also was charged with resisting a peace officer and was released on $200 cash bond.

A witness said that she took Seago's wife, Susan, to the Madison Avenue home so she could pick up some clothes. Soon after they got there, Seago arrived.

The witness said that Mrs. Seago became worried when he arrived, so the two women left, but he allegedly followed them.

At 21st and Omaha streets, Seago forced them off the road, the woman said. He allegedly went to the passenger side of the car, pulled his wife out and slapped her face repeatedly.

The woman alleged that Seago kicked the right side of the car, which belongs to her sister.

Police noted numerous dents to the right side of the car, a dent in the side quarter panel and a dent to the right front side. Damage is estimated at more than $300.

The arresting policeman said he injured his left thumb as he was in the process of arresting Seago.

Foster home being sought

The Illinois Department of Children and Family Services is searching for a foster family to care for Connie, a four year old girl who is developmentally disabled. Diagnosed as microcephalic and severely retarded, she is unable to walk, and cannot yet feed herself.

Gail Holzhausen, resource development supervisor, said Connie responds positively to affection and attention. The number to call here is 876-8985.

"Connie can sit alone and smiles often. She would do best if placed with a loving and patient family that was able to devote a considerable amount of time to her care."

"The need for more foster homes in the Metro-East area is crucial," Gail Holzhausen added.

Some foster parents care for children for a brief period of time, while others care for them until they can be reunited with their families. In any case, foster parents may turn down any child referred and are encouraged to do so if a child would not fit into their family.

Foster parents are paid a board fee ranging from $190 to $235 per month per child. Medical, dental and pharmaceutical bills are also paid by the state.

The department also offers emergency home and professional foster home programs that are income-producing.

Professional foster parents are paid $564 per month per child for the care of two teenagers. Emergency foster parents are paid a $100 per month special fee per bed, even if no child is in the home. When children are placed, emergency families receive board payment in addition to the special fee.

THE LEGISLATURE ADJOURNS

PRESIDENT IN THE CLASSROOM.

Making a point about the basic rules of mathematics is President Earl Lazerson of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, who is teaching a course in the fundamental concepts of algebra for eight weeks this summer at the university. By teaching the senior-beginning graduate course in abstract algebra, designed for teachers and others interested in mathematics, the president made it possible for the department of mathematics, statistics and computer science to offer a course in the applications of statistical methods, according to Robert N. Pendergrass, department chairman. Lazerson, who holds the rank of professor, taught mathematics and served as chairman of the department before he was named dean of the School of Science and Technology in 1973, and later, vice president and provost. He was appointed acting president in 1979 and president in July, 1980.

File 10 charges against brothers

Two Granite City brothers were arrested on a total of 10 charges following incidents occurring July 3 at a local tavern and police headquarters.

Events started with a disturbance at the Long Branch Tavern, 2105 Grand Ave., where the owner, Elaine Robinson, reported Billy Joe Castile, 40, and his brother, Jimmy Dale Castile, 36, both of 2028 Washington Ave., came in accompanied by three other people.

When told they wouldn't be served in the tavern, Billy Joe Castile became enraged and shouted at the woman, allegedly threatening her and going behind the bar with a pool stick.

Mrs. Robinson climbed over the bar and ran outside, she told police. She further alleged that Billy Joe Castile then grabbed her son, Joe Robinson, throwing him against the wall, and also ripped a telephone from the wall.

The men then went outside to the parking lot where he broke the pool stick, she alleged. Damage was estimated at more than $100. A search of the area was made for the Castiles, reports said.

About a half-hour later, an officer was notified by a passing motorist that the Castile brothers were at Ken's Lounge, 1539 E. 20th St., and the pair was confronted there and asked to accompany officers to police headquarters. Both brothers allegedly became unruly at that point and Jimmy Dale Castile reportedly used obscene language toward the officers, but was persuaded to go to headquarters by his brother.

An Illinois State trooper who wanted to talk with the Castiles concerning an accident report assisted to local officers.

At police headquarters, Jimmy Dale Castile refused to go into a holding cell and allegedly became combative.

An altercation ensued with officers in which Jimmy Dale Castile allegedly struck Patrolman Michael Gagich in the chest and, during the struggle, Billy Joe Castile allegedly jumped on Gagich's back. Billy Joe Castile was wrestled to the ground by Sgt. Dave Ruebhausen.

While in a cell, it was alleged, Jimmy Dale Castile repeatedly pounded his head and fists against the door and was taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center for treatment of a cut to his head.

At the hospital, the man allegedly yelled, screamed and used obscene language toward the medical personnel, nursing staff and officers and then declined to be treated.

Jimmy Dale Castile was returned to jail and charged

WOMAN CHARGED FOR RECKLESS DRIVING

A Granite City woman was charged with reckless driving last week after she allegedly swerved her vehicle toward a group of youths riding bicycles, forcing them off the road.

Shirley A. Field, 33, of 2905 Buxton Ave., was released after posting her driver's license as bond.

Five witnesses to the incident, including the four bicyclists, allege that they were riding north in the 2900 block of Buxton, when the woman came toward them from the opposite direction.

COLLECTOR COMIC BOOKS ARE STOLEN

Two collector comic books valued at more than $80 were among a large number of comic books taken in a burglary at The Book Store, 1524 Ponton Road, reported at 9:25 a.m. Tuesday. Darla Coppedge said entry was gained through a rear door and by kicking out a porch door panel. About $15 was taken from a cash register drawer.

Both the collector books—a 1946 Marvel and a Dell Comic from the 1950's—were encased in protective plastic, the owner said.

Bradford, Isbell are finalists for county associate judge spot

A lawyer who practices in Granite City is one of two finalists as a Madison County 3rd Judicial Circuit Associate Judge.

Glenn Bradford, 36, who practices with Chapman and Carlson, and Jonathan Isbell, 32, whose term as judge expired June 30 after he was not retained for the associate judge position, are the two finalists announced Wednesday by Chief Circuit Judge A. Andreas Maloe.

The announcement was made following a run-off vote between the top two applicants after none of the nine who applied won the needed five votes for selection on the first ballot.

Vote totals for the $60,500-a-year job are kept in Springfield. The ballots are sent by each judge to the administrative office of the Illinois courts and the totals are kept secret.

A Collinsville attorney, Isbell was first appointed to the court in 1981. Courthouse observers were surprised when Isbell was not retained in voting for the position last month. Because he was not retained, a position was left open for an associate judge.

In a runoff vote to replace Associate Judge John Day of Wood River, who retired June 30, Bradford was one of six finalists, but lost to Wendell Durr of Edwardsville.

The other applicants were Dennis Douglas of Edwardsville, Raymond Burroughs of Collinsville, James Hell of Godfrey, Robert Larson of East Alton, Daniel Slack and Raymond Stillwell of Highland, and Arthur Greenwood of Alton.

State Aid funding resumed

Governor James R. Thompson asked Comptroller Roland Burris during the weekend to process General Assistance checks for more than 40,000 state aid recipients when he vowed not to reduce appropriation of Senate Bill 378 below needed July distribution levels.

"Today I asked Comptroller Burris to begin processing General Assistance checks to 41,400 people who would have lost their monthly aid if an income tax plan was not approved Thursday night (June 30) and signed by me," the governor said.

The Comptroller had been ready to issue the checks but could not until a Department of Public Safety letter was approved by the General Assembly. The governor then sent his letter.

"Our action will continue the program to help those that and that essential services that were in jeopardy earlier last month will continue," said Thompson in signing a letter to Burris telling the comptroller he would not reduce the amount of funding in SB 378 below the level of funding required for July aid checks.

Flanagan was stabbed during an apparent argument, DCA agents said. Police have not determined a motive for the stabbing.

GC women keep Miss Universe Pageant on time

Mrs. Lilley runs pageant press room

(Editor's Note: this is the second of two stories on Granite Cityans involved in the Miss Universe pageant in St. Louis. The first, focusing on Anita Eitneroff, a chaperone to Miss Brazil and Miss Ecuador, appeared in Monday's edition.)

While the Miss Universe Pageant contestants are visiting the St. Louis area, Barbara Lilley, a Granite City resident, is making sure the press covers the pageant properly.

Mrs. Lilley is the press room director for the pageant, and her major duty is to make sure the press—print, television and radio—knows the schedule for each day's activities and to prepare informational packets for the press.

She has been operating the press room for the pageant for three weeks and will continue beyond the end of the pageant. She and her volunteer staff will probably prepare packets for 400 newspapers, television networks or stations, and radio stations.

Besides those duties, she also has to be sure the small things are done so things go smoothly. "I have to do (more than) the 'nit-picking' things. For instance, we had to make sure a piano was taken from Kiel Auditorium to Kiener Plaza got there, and once it got there, we had to get the piano painted black," Mrs. Lilley said.

"I act as a liaison between the pageant and other people, and that means we have to do a lot of the smaller things to keep things going on schedule," she added.

A difficult part of her job is when member from the foreign press come and ask for information. Since some of the reporters cannot speak much

English, it requires Mrs. Lilley to call for an interpreter. Her office is also responsible for making press and official credentials.

Because of the small things involved in operating the press room, she has volunteers from the Granite City area helping her. Among the volunteers are Judy Rue, Kathi Anderson, Shirley Dutko, Doris Ann Gullford, Lisa Andrews and Michelle Bertsch.

Preparations for the Miss Universe Pageant and visits to various St. Louis attractions and other buildings fill the day of the contestants, chaperones and volunteers alike. Miss Bolivia and Miss Ecuador, who are being chaperoned by Anita Eitneroff of Granite City, also lead busy days.

Top right, Miss Bolivia, Cecelia Zamora Oliva, helps George Oesterle of St. Louis make an ornamental holder at the Tower Village Nursing Care Center in north St. Louis.

Bottom right, Miss Ecuador, Marilisa Garcia, rehearses a song and a routine that will be used in the pageant.

Check 36 firework calls in 26 hours

Not all fireworks were confined to the official spectacular pyrotechnic displays seen in the bi-state metropolitan area last night. Many Granite Cityans elected to set off their own Fourth of July fireworks.

Between 12:10 a.m. Monday, July 4, and 2 a.m. Tuesday, July 5, officers were sent to investigate 36 complaints of fireworks being ignited throughout the Granite City area. In several cases, those responsible were located and were cautioned by the police about the illegal activity.

Several hundred individual fireworks bursts were noted in various neighborhoods, but for the most part were not reported. No arrests were made.

MONEY TAKEN

Ann Nadziesko, 2714 Nametki Road, told police that $452 was removed from her purse while it was in the living room during the weekend.

AMERICAN FLAG IS STOLEN JULY 4

In a twist of irony, sometime early July 4 or late July 3, vandals stole a large American flag from a clothesline at the home of Burt Jordan, 2037 (rear) Dewey Ave.

Charlene Sanders, of 2037 Dewey Ave., reported that near the same time, vandals took a bug light from her home.

Lillian Sansoucie, 2041 Richmond Ave., reported that a bug "wacker" also was stolen from her home early July 4.

CHOW CHOW STOLEN FOR THIRD TIME

A 5-month-old female Chow Chow dog was stolen for the third time in its short life during the weekend.

The dog, belonging to Donna and Jeff Curless, 2300a State St., was taken from the backyard. The puppy, worth $350, responded to the name of "Sugar Bear."

Plan would ease prison overcrowding

A $12.1 million plan to ease the state's forced release of adult prison inmates through November has been announced by Governor James R. Thompson.

The plan would permit the Illinois Department of Corrections to temporarily shut off the intake of adult inmates from counties when the adult prison system beds are full.

It would exclude those who commit misdemeanors from the state prison system to keep from exceeding the system's capacity.

It would add 300 work release beds to the present 1,500 beds by adding new sites by November.

The plan also would expand 150 work camp beds at Springfield and 324 beds at three other camps, yet to be announced.

The plan relies upon the opening of the first 150 beds at the Dixon Correctional Center by Oct. 1, of 200 minimum-security beds at East Moline Correctional Center by Aug. 1 and of 100 new medium-security beds at Sheridan Correctional Center in August.

Thompson said he has asked legislative leaders to include the cost of the program in any available - budget allocation.

"Early release was instituted by the Department of Corrections as a 'safety valve' against a demand for the adult prison beds which outstrips our capacity," the governor said. "Most states have been forced to create such programs, but 'forced release' the release each Friday of the same number of prisoners who come into the system, is resulting in the release of prisoners who ought to be serving longer sentences," he added.

Since Thompson became governor in 1977, about 3,500 new adult prison beds have been added to the Illinois penal system. At present, intake into the system exceeds normal release by more than 400 monthly. Forced releases totaled 438 in April and 453 in May. In June, 332 had been released by June 17, the latest figures available.

"This plan is neither cheap nor long range. It temporarily addresses a growing concern in the law enforcement community that prison inmates are being returned to society too quickly, a concern which is demonstrated by the growing number of lawsuits against the Department of Corrections," the governor commented.

The governor said it is no longer possible, at this time, to accept persons convicted of misdemeanors into the system, due to the overcrowding system.

How to save money on your grocery bills

Here are some important shopping tips

- 1-Check specials in food store advertisements.
- 2-Get to know the butcher and produce manager.
- 3-Find out when deliveries of perishables are made and shop on those days. Fresher foods last longer and consequently, you'll waste less.
- 4-Learn to estimate accurately the amounts of food needed. Keep a record of the amount of food you throw away in a week. It may alert you to ways you can reduce waste.
- 5-For economy and variety, use eggs, dry beans, and peanut butter in place of meat some of the time. These foods provide protein and most other nutrients that meat supplies.
- 6-Use nonfat dry milk, which is less expensive than fluid milk, at least part of the time in cooking and as a beverage.
- 7-By law, economy sizes of non-food items must save you at least 5% over other sizes of the same brand.
- 8-Try to shop as seldom as possible, preferably once a week.
- 9-Always shop with a well thought out shopping list. Try to base your list of foods on your menu for the week.
- 10-Take advantage of the special coupon offers going on at First Granite City Savings in conjunction with your local Schnuck's grocer.

Possible satellite to Cahokia Mounds is discovered

F. Terry Norris, archaeologist with the Army Corps of Engineers, has reason to be ecstatic. His St. Louis District contains the highest archaeological site density in the U.S. His focus now is at two recent discoveries.

Spring floodwaters south of St. Genevieve scoured a long channel across the previously undisturbed flood plain.

Exposed: the remains of a village, dating to perhaps A.D. 1200, a previously-unknown settlement possibly associated with the four-square-mile Cahokia Mounds Historical Site southeast of Horseshoe Lake, the largest archaeological site within the United States.

Salt pans, jar rims, hoe and spade fragments, celts (axes) and adzes (wood-working tools) have been collected near St. Genevieve.

Also found were marine shells — hauled long ago from the Gulf of Mexico, probably — and galena (lead ore), native to Old Mines and Potosi, Mo., 25 miles west.

Norris said the St. Genevieve outpost might have been keyed to a nearby salt spring, first reported by LaSalle, the 17th century explorer.

Indians molded shallow clay pans, nine inches or so deep and four feet diameter. They filled the pans with the brackish water, stone-belled it away, and recovered the salt.

"We know they were redistributing the salt as a barter good," Norris said. "We found pottery sherds, tempered with ground-up mussel shells, that appear to have been made at Cahokia."

"These Indians also mined and traded galena throughout the Midwest — east and west, and other Mississippians in the Lower Valley. We find a fairly widespread trade network at that time," he says.

Digging implements found at St. Genevieve are made of Mill Creek chert, a type of rock found in natural state only in Union County, Illinois. Norris said. This village probably was semipermanent, with well-built rectangular structures, he says.

"It can be speculated these had upright posts, mud and straw between, with sticks woven in a lattice-work."

Because the St. Genevieve find is unique and significant, Norris has notified the Missouri State Historic Preservation Office, Jefferson City, and the University of Missouri's Department of Anthropology, at Columbia.

Cahokia Mounds, 35 miles north of the 3½-acre St. Genevieve tract, may have peaked with a population of more than 10,000 Mississippian Indians about A.D. 1200.

Of more than 100 mounds originally at Cahokia, 45 remain. The largest is 100 feet tall, terraced on four levels, with a 14-acre base. Its geometric form is a rounded, or flattened, pyramid. Authorities have cited it as "the largest artificial earthwork in the United States."

Only two archaeological sites in all of the U.S. are on the prestigious World Heritage List kept by UNESCO (United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization). The other is Mesa Verde National Park, Colo., famed for Indian cave-dwellers.

Cahokia satellite villages are identified at Mitchell, Dupo and Lebanon, Ill., along the Big River in Illinois, and now, possibly, at St. Genevieve.

INDIAN ARTIFACTS are studied by F. Terry Norris after being washed out in a flood-plain near St. Genevieve. Mo. Norris is an archaeologist with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Meanwhile, a cache of a different era was unearthed May 31 during construction at the Defense Mapping Agency Aerospace Center, St. Louis.

That site was a major U.S. arsenal from the 1820s-60s, spanning the Mexican and Civil wars, and now is listed on the National Register of Historic Places.

Lead musket balls, cast-iron grapeshot, the remains of swords and pistols, military brass buckles with eagles and U.S. motifs, tableware and mid-19th century bottles have been found.

In addition, pre-Columbian American Indian artifacts, "perhaps predating the military occupation by thousands of years," were dug up.

Norris said the material will be catalogued and made ready for public interpretative displays.

Norris' credentials include a master's degree in anthropology. If the Cahokia Mounds satellite at St. Genevieve is verified, it won't be his first coup.

On June 5, 1980, "during lunch period," he was looking over 1928 Corps aerial photographs of the Mississippi River.

He spotted an unexplained "dark, organic, stain" — what appeared to be a stain out in an agricultural field, "on grounds of the Fort de Chartres State Historic Site."

Fort de Chartres is a 1733 limestone fortification built by the French, five miles northwest of St. Genevieve.

Norris' expertise told him the stain might possibly outline a wooden fort, now rotted down, known to have been built in 1720. It is 6-mile from the 450-foot-square stone fort.

A team of investigators with remote sensors has since zeroed onto French iron kettle parts, a 1723 coin, bits of brandy bottles and military items, Norris' theory: confirmed.

Grain elevator protection bill awaits governor's pen

A new concept in protecting farmers against losses in grain elevator failures is contained in a bill (SB 800) passed by the Illinois General Assembly and readied for the governor's signature.

The bill represents a compromise worked out by the Illinois Farm Bureau, Grain and Feed Association of Illinois, Illinois Department of Agriculture, House Speaker Michael Madigan and Attorney General Neil Hartigan.

Illinois Farm Bureau President Harold Steele said the final bill is "drastically different" from the original guarantee fund called for in earlier legislative versions of the bill.

"This is a case where a bad proposal was worked in to a good bill through compromise and some really creative thinking," said Steele.

The bill calls for creation of an Illinois Grain Insurance Corporation, which would provide protection for farmer losses in grain elevator failures. The insurance program is funded with money now used by grain dealers and warehousemen to purchase surety bonds.

"The insurance corporation will use money that has already been earmarked by the grain industry. It's money already being spent," said William Allen, IFB Executive Director of Information.

Under current law, grain elevator operators in the state pay annual premiums totaling $1.2 to $1.4 million to buy surety bonds. The new plan would redirect this money into the new insurance corporation.

The corporation would reimburse farmers for 100 percent of losses in grain in storage and 85 percent of any grain sold. Total protection on grain sold would be limited to $100,000 for each farmer.

Thirty days after the bill is signed, elevators will pay to the Illinois Grain Insurance Corporation approximately twice what they now pay for surety bonds. During the second and third years of the plan, elevators will pay an assessment equal to their current bond premium.

If the insurance fund is greater than $5 million at the end of three years of operation, elevators will not pay any assessments. If the fund is less than $5 million, they will again be assessed until the fund reaches $5 million.

The IFB had vigorously opposed an early proposal for a state guarantee plan which would have created a fund in the state Treasury as much as $20 million.

"We wanted to make sure we could protect an insurance fund from other uses in state government," said Dean Sears, IFB Director of State Legislation.

"This new bill goes as far as you can in protecting the money because it sets up a separate corporation."

Promotion and sale of IFB's "Grain Protector Insurance" has been suspended. "Grain Protector" is an insurance program for Farm Bureau members designed to cover farmer losses in elevator failures.

"The insurance protection that the delegates of the Illinois Farm Bureau called for at our last annual meeting is largely provided through the new state bill," said Len Gardner, IFB executive director of governmental affairs.

A decision on whether to cancel the "Grain Protector" policy may not be made by the IFB board of directors until after the governor signs SB 800. If the policy is cancelled, all premiums paid to date will be refunded.

Three persons were injured last week in an accident on Illinois Route 8 at Niedringhaus Avenue. All were taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center where one driver, Daniel S. Meyer, 22, of St. Louis, was treated and released to police officers.

Also hurt were Ronald T. File, 18, of 2317 Lincoln Ave., driver of the second car involved, and Thomas Demattio, 28, of Louisiana, a passenger in the Meyer auto.

At the SEMC emergency room, an officer alleged an odor of alcohol emanated from Meyer and he consented to a blood alcohol test. He was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol.

Meyer appeared in the Granite City court and pleaded innocent. Bond was set at $5,000 and a mittimus was issued. Four hours later, he was released from custody after posting a $500 cash bond.

Jerry W. Johnson, 26, of Greater Heights, Madison, and James W. Willis, 30, of 916 Jefferson St., West Madison, were each charged with burglary in informational documents issued last week by the Madison County state's attorney's office.

Both men were captured in the early hours of Tuesday when they allegedly burgled were discovered at the House of Values, 1420 State St., Vern's Transmission, 1420 State St., and a garage at the home of Bob Orasco, 1415 Grand Ave. (A related story appears elsewhere).

Willis and Johnson appeared in the Granite City court and bonds of $50,000 were set on each man. Both were transferred to the Madison County Jail at Edwardsville.

GC Jr. Legion, Troy split marathon double header

By ALAN L. GERSTENECKER
Sports Editor
of the Press-Record

TRIOY — The Granite City Junior American Legion baseball team was happy to win the second of Tuesday's double header against Troy, but Coach Kevin Sykes would have been just as happy to trade the second win for the first.

Granite City dropped the first of Tuesday's two-night double header against Troy 2-1 at Tri-Township Park, but came back to win the nightcap 7-6 in the 10th inning.

As sweet as extra-inning victory was for the local line, it would have been even sweeter if they had pulled off a victory in the first game. In District 22 double headers, only the first game is figured in league standings.

As a result of its loss, Granite City drops to 9-2 in the league, third behind East St. Louis (10-1) and Dupage (9-2).

FIRST GAME

In that all important first game, both teams started slow, unable to score. Troy out hit Granite City, but it was Granite City which scored first.

After two scoreless innings, Granite City broke on top when Scott Grote singled in Brent Cook who reached on a walk.

Through the first five innings, Granite City's starting pitcher, Jim Fickel, was superb. The right hander struck out six, put one on and held Troy scoreless.

But five innings was all the lucky

"We've been sluggish. Both on the basepaths and at the plate. We didn't hit like we're capable. We gave them the game."

Kevin Sykes
Jr. Legion Coach

hurler lasted. In the fateful sixth, Troy All-Star Stacy Simmons swatted a Fletcher pitch to deep left center field for a double.

With Simmons in scoring position, Troy's Ryan Keller reached as Fletcher slipped attempting to field Keller's bunt. Simmons advanced to third on the error.

Having gone just five complete innings in the first game, the sixth, Sykes sent in Rod Sampson to shut things down, but luck wasn't with them.

Sampson got Tom King to fly out to center field for the first out, but in doing so Simmons scored from third to tie the game at one.

Keller, who had stole second just moments before, advanced to third on the relay to the infield. An attempter threw to get Keller enroute to third got by Granite City third baseman Tom Mosby and escaped out-of-play. Keller scored to give Troy the lead, and the eventual winning run, 2-1.

Granite City had just one opportunity to tie or, to win in the top of the seventh. For both, coming from behind was not difficult, they had done it several times before.

But Tuesday night, things were different. Things were different or maybe they just seemed different. Anyway, somehow it seemed they wouldn't pull this one off. Perhaps it was because they had done it so many times before. Maybe they were due not to come from behind.

But also, Sykes conceded, his team was not playing its best baseball. "We've been sluggish," Sykes said. "Both on the basepaths and at the plate. We didn't hit like we're capable. We gave them the game."

The Granite City helmetsman, too, admitted the absence of players as part of the problem for Tuesday's loss.

Missing from the line up are John Konkovich, first base, who is on vacation and Jim Moulton, catcher. More than his fielding prowess, Konkovich's forte is his hitting ability.

Moulton, who is admittedly weak at the plate, is devastating defensively. What he lacks in the batter's box, he more than makes up for on his ability to cut runners down on the basepaths. He is out with an accurate rear infectious.

In addition to the absence of those two, two of Granite City's key offensive powers are both slumping: Adamitis and Pat Cathey. Both are usually 400 hitters. Adamitis was 2-6 Tuesday evening, which shows improvement as of late, but Cathey was hitless at six trips to the plate.

Sykes classified Konkovich, Adamitis, Cathey and Mosby as "the meat of the batting order." "When we're without those guys or their not hitting we're not the same ballclub."

SECOND GAME

Distraught with the loss in the first game, Granite City bounced back in the first inning of the second game to score three runs.

In that initial inning, Mosby slapped a single to left field to score both Cook and Grote who reached on a lead off single and a walk respectively.

Adamitis, who also reached on a walk, scored when King had trouble gloving Mosby's single.

Troy, which apparently didn't know the second game didn't affect league standings, wanted desperately to sweep the twinnit.

Coach Ron Helf's nine out Granite City's lead to two in the bottom half of the first when Brian Kelly singled in Lewis who singled to center field and advanced to third on Grote's error.

Troy picked up a second run 4th, the first when Simmons scored Kelly, who by then had stolen second and reached third on an error.

Troy's 3-1 lead in the third inning when it scored three runs on one hit. Aided by three errors in the inning, two of which at home plate, Troy reeked havoc on Granite City's defense.

Jeff singled to left field to start the rally. Kelly reached as Granite City pitcher Bob Dietrich misjudged his bunt and Curt Wright reached on an error by third base man Donny Martin.

With the bases loaded, Simmons rapped a shot back to Dietrich who even- tually turned and threw towards home for the force out. Dietrich's throw, however, sailed over catcher Matt Roe allowing Jeff to score the winning run.

As Roe was retrieving the ball, Kelly, in succession, attempted to score from third. At first Kelly appeared to be out. In fact, home plate umpire Steve Michance called Kelly out at but changed his call when it became apparent that Dietrich dropped the ball.

Troy's Mike Rimar flew out to Cathey at first base for the first out, but Brad Holloway scored Wright from third on a second out fielder's choice.

Granite City didn't score again until the fifth inning when Adamitis tripled in Grote who had singled to center field the frame before.

Mosby made it five apiece with his single to left field which scored Adamitis. Troy ended the inning by sending Mosby down with a fielder's choice at second base. Thurman at first and striking out Martin.

Just when it appeared that Granite would win, after going ahead in the top of the seventh inning when Adamitis stole home on a wild pitch, Troy managed a run to prolong the game. Even Thurman's hidden ball trick which victimized Rimar wasn't enough to retire Troy.

Instead, the game went through two scoreless innings, and through the 10th before Granite City finally won. Granite City's best chance to win came in the ninth inning when it had the bases loaded with one out.

Borrowing a page from Granite City's playbook, Rimar, who Granite City caught off the bag in the seventh inning, used the hidden ball trick to send Grote to the dugout. Thurman filed to second base for the final out.

In the tenth inning, Martin reached on a walk, advanced to second and third on a pair of fielder's choices, and then Grote successfully squeezed him home for the game winning run.

Granite City managed seven runs on nine hits and stranded 13 baserunners. Troy managed six runs on seven hits and stranded eight.

Tonight Granite City travels to Alton for a p.m. game.

DePew's HK blast lifts Triplets past Highland

By ROGER KRAMER
of the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — Any player who hit 300 against the pitchers at the National Sports Festival — the best pitcher in amateur baseball — should have no problems with the pitchers in American Legion District 22, right?

Daren DePew, who caught for the North team at the festival in Colorado Springs, Colo., was struggling against the slower pitchers in the league. Fortunately for the Tri-City American Legion team, he broke out of his slump Wednesday.

DePew's three-run home run in the seventh inning gave the Triplets a 4-3 win over Highland in a District 22 game at Granite City North.

DePew spent 13 days in Colorado participating in the festival as a catcher. During his time at the festival, he saw pitchers who were throwing around 90 m.p.h. When he came back to the Triplets, he had to get adjusted to pitchers who threw slower than 90 m.p.h. Some pitcher threw slower than 70 m.p.h.

In his first two District 22 games after the festival, he only had one hit. "I haven't hit the ball well since I've come back," DePew said.

"I faced some of the best pitchers in the country, and I couldn't hit off them that well. When I came back, I had a lot of problems with my timing. I just had to settle down," he said.

He visited the batting cages after he saw his timing was bad and worked on slower pitches. The extra work paid off as he went 2-for-4 against Highland.

"That's the best way to come out of a slump," Tri-City manager Larry Corey said. "I knew he would start hitting again soon."

After Mill Roe bounced a single between Highland's third baseman and shortstop and Dave Sheikh walked for the Triplets to open the seventh inning, Corey knew something good was going to happen. The walk was the first for Highland pitcher Brady Kenser.

When we got the first two runners on base, I thought we were going to get a long ball from someone," Corey said. "The next four batters in the line-up were Brian Levin, DePew, John Linhart and Vince Mitchell. One of these four was capable of getting the signal."

Levin struck out for the first out of the inning, but DePew's blast "made everything complete. With a 1-1 count, DePew correctly predicted Kenser would throw him a curve ball and drove it over the left field fence.

"I figured it would be a curve ball, because Mill Roe told me he was going mostly with curve balls. I just guessed he was going to throw a curve ball and I hit it," DePew said.

"I was glad we won this game because it was a big win for us in District 22," DePew said.

Indeed it was an important game. The Triplets stayed on top of the North Division with the win, which increased their record to 12-5 in District 22 play.

Edwardsville, the second place team in the league, has six losses. The Triplets also averaged an extra loss to Highland with the win.

"You don't want to lose to the same team twice," Corey said. "We also have some tough games coming up that we have to win."

Tri-City's other run came in the fourth inning. Kevin Sykes and Dan Whitwell singled. Roe was called out when a bunt hit him in fair territory. Sheikh's ground rule error, which bounced over the left field fence, drove home Patterson.

Although Tri-City had eight hits prior to the seventh inning, the Triplets couldn't do much with the hits. Tri-City stranded seven batters in the first six innings.

"We just couldn't put anything together, but we managed to stay close. Any time you can stay close, you still can win," Corey said.

Highland was more fortunate in the early innings. An error by Roe allowed Jeff Fichthorn to reach first. Joe Brinker appeared to have hit a double play ball to Triplet pitcher Mike Zukas, but Levin couldn't get the throw at second. With two runners on, Jeff Schulte singled to load the bases, and Fichthorn hit a double-play grounder by Jeff Bell.

Highland used more conventional means to score its other two runs in the fourth inning. Mike Spies doubled, and Larry Whirlow also doubled to bring Spies home. Whitlow scored Highland's final run on a single by Roger Landman.

"After we missed that first double play in the first inning, we got a couple more important double plays which were keys in the game. We played good defense after that," Corey said.

Also helping to keep Tri-City close was the pitching of Zukas. He pitched all seven innings, giving up only seven hits. In the process, he struck out six

Highland-Pierron turns back Spanky's in 10th

By AL BARNES
of the Press-Record

CHICAGO — The Highland-Pierron baseball field has seen a lot of wild and woolly games, but probably none as zany as Wednesday night's as the home club defeated the visiting 7-Up/Spanky's team, in 10 innings, 11-10.

The loss dropped 7-Up/Spanky's to 22-43, while the Highland-Pierron Merchants upped their record to 15-19.

It was a slam-bang affair from the start with Highland zooming out to a 7-4 lead after four frames. Then, in the fifth inning, the losers pushed three runs across the plate while batting around the lineup to tie it up 7-7.

Couch Eldon Warfield 6-7. Up/Spanky's started his coach Eldon Warfield 6-7. Up/Spanky's started his coach Eldon Warfield 6-7.

First, in the eighth, with two out, but with a runner in scoring position, the young coach called for a steal with his best, by far, batter, Tim Gamble at bat. It didn't work. First up, in the ninth, Gamble blasted the third pitch for a double to left.

The following inning, he ordered a runner on second to attempt a steal of third, in a sure out as Highland's veteran catcher, Randy Manley, had the runner by six feet.

The losers' out hit Highland, 12-10-11. Tom Greco drove in three runs for Spanky's with his double in the third driving in a pair.

Highland-Pierron 11-10. Hoffman, catcher for the losers but a native of Highland, went 2-for-5 with two runs batted in, incidentally, Gamble's sacrifice fly to center drove in the losers' final 10th run.

Darrell Wehrnd, outfielder for Spanky's, appears to have regained his batting eye; he went 3-for-4. Granite City's Kevin Sykes, leading off for the losers and playing second base, collected two hits in four trips.

Frank Stillwagon, Randy Manley and Mark Lymboropoulos were the big guns for the winners. Stillwagon was 2-for-4. Manley had a perfect 3-for-3 (he walked twice), and Lymboropoulos, went 2-for-3 and drove in three rallies.

Tonight, 7-Up/Spanky's will take on the Solators of St. Louis in a 7:30 p.m. game at Edwardsville's Hoppe Park. Tomorrow (Friday), evening at Alton's Gordon Moore Park, the East Alton Slugs will be the opposition.

Musicale and film at City Temple Church

The Lord's Inspirations, a local musical group under the direction of Danny Bolin, are with the assistance of his wife, Marge, will present a program at 7 p.m. Sunday, July 16, at City Temple Assembly of God Church, 6951 Maryville Road.

All members of the group are vocalists and are involved in other areas of music. They include Bolin with compositions and group management, Mrs. Bolin, piano, mistress of ceremonies and compositions, Caryl Eybel, lead and rhythm guitar, synthesizer and arrangements, Deana Eybel, piano and synthesizer, Dick Fisher, bass guitar and compositions, Marie Fisher, piano and compositions and Teresa Senger, piano and arrangements.

This Ministry in Music, as it appears today, has existed since mid 1962, although the idea was originated in 1979. Pursuing their dedication to Christian music, the group is rapidly becoming popular in the Midwest, including Tennessee, Missouri, Indiana, and Alabama.

They not only have appeared in churches or church affiliated concerts, but have served those in schools, senior citizen centers, reformatories, and other institutions.

Another special program at the church will be the Heartland film release of "Nite Song," to be shown at 7:30 p.m. Monday July 11, sponsored by the Youth Service at City Temple.

The film is produced by Heartland Productions, Inc. of Des Moines, Iowa, to bring today's family face to face with the solutions to life's day to day problems, even impossible problems faced by many of today's teenagers, Rev. Burnette announces.

The minister extends an invitation to the public to attend the new program and events at the church.

Local Girl Scouts earn Marian Award

Members of Girl Scout Troop 196, of St. Elizabeth Catholic School, were presented with the coveted Marian Award which they worked toward during the school year.

Presentation of the award was during a special ceremony held at the church earlier this summer. In order to receive the award, the girls were to follow a program set out for them. Each was required to do research, reflect and participate in various projects in the community.

The initial chapter dealt with the girl "as a person," getting to know her own interests and getting in touch with her feelings. The next step was entitled, "Love One Another," and required the girls to "explore the outside world."

Progressing to the next level on, "For the Least of My Brothers," they spent time doing things for others, such as welfare, visiting nursing homes, and creating a specific project, concluding with an essay on what they thought love is. "Sign of Hope to the People of God" was another category of work and related to girls entering adulthood. Here the scouts listed 10 people they admired most and told why.

A finale on vocations involved reading about biblical characters and the other apostles and what they would do for Jesus. Each participant was required to list what they would do for Jesus as part of the program.

"Behold the Handmaid of the Lord" was the final chapter and centered around the Blessed Mother. The troop members studied Mary's response to God and they learned about her character in the process. They also took part in other religious activities of the church to complete the requirements.

The New Salem Missionary Baptist Church, 1349 Klein Ave., Venice, will host its second annual William H. Payne Memorial Scholarship program on Sunday, July 10, at 4 p.m., according to the Rev. John H. Williams, pastor.

Mrs. Thelma Thompson, chairman of the program, announces the theme of the event will be "Lord, Let Us Up Where We Belong Through Education." Venice Mayor Tyrone Echols will be the guest speaker and the Scott Air Force Base choir has also been invited to participate in the affair, the chairman added.

ATTENDS INSTITUTE ON ENGINEERING

Michele Lynn Bezan, 3145 Myrtle Ave., attended the 10th annual Jackling Institute recently at the University of Missouri-Rolla. The institute is designed to introduce high school students to career opportunities in mineral and materials engineering.

Students spent three days on campus for a variety of demonstrations and presentations. Evening activities included a welcome dinner and informal discussions with UMR students. The students also visited a commercial mine.

The institute is hosted by the UMR departments of ceramic, geological, metallurgical, nuclear, mining and petroleum engineering and geophysics.

Dr. Ronald A. Kohser, a UMR associate professor of metallurgical engineering, is director of the institute.

City Temple designs new religious classes

The Rev. James Burnette, pastor of City Temple Assembly of God, 4751 Maryville Road, announces the change of format in the adult portion of the Christian Education department. Along with the standard adult class, taught by Dan Kostelnik, four new classes will be created to meet the need of the community.

One of the new classes being started will be a "Singles" class, taught by Gaye Flood. This class will do an in-depth study of problems that are exclusive of single life. Those who are single by choice, divorce of single by the death of your spouse, are invited to enroll.

Another of the new classes will be a Marriage Enrichment class. What the singles class is for people that are single, this class will be for married people. With approximately 50 percent of marriages ending in divorce, City Temple felt that it was time to step back and take a look at this problem that is sweeping our country.

To find some of the troubles that arise in a marriage and how to eliminate them. If you and your spouse are having marital problems, this class could well be the thing to help restore it, and if you have a good marriage, it will make it a better one, the pastor added. This class will be taught by David Hutchison.

The third class to be started will be a Bible Topics class, taught by Kathy McKay. A need for a class that teaches an in-depth study of different topics of the Bible was felt, Rev. Burnette explained.

A lighter study of the scriptures will be taught by Pam Rice, daughter of Rev. Ed Shemwell, pastor of Potots Assembly of God and former associate pastor of City Temple. This class will study the basic beliefs of the Assemblies of God. Classes start at 9:45 a.m. Sunday morning with morning worship services at 10:45 a.m. Evening services begin at 7 p.m.

Singles Class at Calvary Baptist

Calvary Baptist Church, 3006 Washington Ave., is in the process of starting a singles ministry designed for single people who have never been married, divorced and widowed persons to include the ages of college and career people up to age 35, according to the minister.

This class will meet on Sunday nights at 6:30 starting this Sunday, July 10, at Calvary Baptist Church, 3006 Washington Ave. Materials to be studied will be the Module, "Christian Life-Style for Singles" which consists of the following topics: "Wants vs. Needs" and "Individual Study Guide."

For more information those interested are advised to call the church office at 877-0065. According to a church spokesman there also will be a pot luck supper at the church on Friday, July 8, at 6:30 p.m. and is open to the congregation and public.

All women are cordially invited to attend. The cost of the luncheon-program is $3.85, payable at the door.

A free nursery for preschoolers will be provided at the Christian Fellowship Center (Church), located on the frontage road north of the Union 76 Truck Stop.

Reservations for the luncheon and nursery are essential and can be made by calling 877-0065 or Betty 684-6091 by noon, Friday, July 8.

Madison man shot during the VP Fair

The condition of shooting victim Terry Grafton, 32, of Madison, is improving and Grafton granted interviews with St. Louis television crews this week.

He was admitted to St. Louis University Hospital Monday night after he was shot once in the lower abdomen while trying to take a revolver away from a 24-year-old East St. Louis man at the St. Louis VP Fair.

He was reported to be in serious, but stable, condition at the St. Louis facility, but was sitting up and talking with friends and reporters.

Police said that the assailant and his girlfriend tripped over patrons at the fair and then quarreled with several people. When he was pursued by several men with whom he had argued, the East St. Louis man pulled out the gun. Grafton, who apparently was not involved in the dispute, tried to take away the gun and was shot, according to the authorities.

The shooting took place on Levee St. Sullivan Boulevard at the foot of the Gateway Arch about 10:30 p.m. Monday during the final fireworks display.

During a televised interview, Grafton pledged that he will never again go to a large affair such as the VP Fair "without some protection."

Refuses to leave; faces 2 charges

A Granite City woman was arrested by Madison police Wednesday at 12:10 a.m. and charged with resisting arrest and disobeying a police officer.

Peggy S. Gordon, 25, of 3611 Kirkpatrick Homes was released the same day at 11:20 a.m. on $104 cash bond.

She allegedly went to see her ex-husband, Ben Gordon, at his mother's home in Madison. His mother, Edith McIntire, said she told Mrs. Gordon she wasn't welcome and asked her to leave. Mrs. Gordon, however, refused to leave.

The police were called and Mrs. Gordon was still there when they arrived. They told her to leave immediately, but she allegedly refused and started to argue with her ex-husband's mother. Police said they told her again to leave, but she continued arguing.

She then was told she was under arrest for disobeying a police officer, but she allegedly pushed away from the officer and said she hadn't done anything. The police officer said that when he tried to handcuff Mrs. Gordon, she pushed him. She then was charged with resisting arrest.

DUI IS ALLEGED.
Edward Riggs, 29, of Granite City, was arrested last week by Collinsville police and was charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol. He also was charged with driving in violation of his license restriction calling for corrective lenses.

Overcoming unnatural fears vital to finding harmony, expert says

By NANCY WEIL
of the Press-Record

In her book, "Working it Through," Dr. Elisabeth Kubler-Ross, an internationally renowned physician and psychiatrist, writes, "Our only enemies are guilt, fear and shame."

Once such "negativisms" are overcome, individuals can learn to live as whole human beings, in harmony with themselves and their surroundings, Dr. Kubler-Ross said during a lecture in St. Elizabeth Medical Center. (A previous article on her talk appeared in last week's Press-Record.)

Fear is the worst problem people have, Dr. Kubler-Ross has found during her work with terminally ill patients and others who must learn to cope with death.

But once a person finds harmony, there will be no fear, "of dying, nor of living," she said prior to the lecture.

For 18 years, Dr. Kubler-Ross has worked with dying patients and their families. She conducts workshops around the world for terminally ill patients and for those who have had negative experiences with dying.

Recently, her work has expanded to assist Vietnam veterans, a group with a disproportionately high rate of suicide. Some 62,000 "Americans die by suicide, and twice as many have committed suicide after returning."

"And that's terrible and we're responsible," she said. Many veterans are "very, very hurt and very, very traumatized."

"They were sent as 18-year-old kids and all they learned to do was kill. They returned and expected an expression of appreciation. Instead, they were spit on, literally and symbolically."

During the five-day workshops, however, most of the Vietnam veterans who stay for the full program "throw away their suicide notes and reach a level where they can cope with the hostility that was thrust upon them."

While the bulk of her work has been with dying patients, she emphasizes living and learning to cope with unnatural fears.

There are only two natural fears, she said, the fear of falling and the fear of loud noises. All others are unnatural and must be overcome.

Further, people must learn to express and cope with natural emotions. If they can, it repressed, lead to unnatural feelings. Grief, jealousy and anger are natural and should be expressed.

Problems manifest from childhood on because many parents don't allow their children to express natural emotions, Dr. Kubler-Ross said.

Children should not be punished for expressing their emotions. In particular, the ages of 1 to 6 are most important in a child's development.

"That's when you get all the basic attitudes that ruin you," she jokingly told the audience.

During these years, children must be provided unconditional love, which must continue as the child grows up. Further, she contends that "You should never, ever, ever punish a child. For anything."

Instead, children should be firmly and consistently disciplined.

"When a child becomes angry about something, it is especially important to allow the emotion to be expressed. Anger is a perfectly natural emotion and lasts 15 seconds," she said.

In Dr. Kubler-Ross' opinion, any time a person feels angry, he should allow the emotion to last only 15 seconds and then should go on. Letting anger continue is just as unhealthy as repressing it, she contended.

Repressed anger will become rage or revenge and children who are feared who "sit on anger" will become "mini-Hitlers."

To live in harmony for both young and old requires full development of four quadrants evident in everyone, she said. People are comprised of spiritual, intellectual, physical and emotional quadrants, each of which develops during particular periods.

Infants and children need physical attention including "hugging and smooching" while the other quadrants develop later, Dr. Kubler-Ross said.

DR. ELISABETH KUBLER-ROSS

In terminally ill children where the physical quadrant is "gone early," the spiritual quadrant emerges. With all terminally ill patients, however, the spiritual quadrant expresses itself.

According to Dr. Kubler-Ross, terminally ill patients are able to know, through their spiritual quadrant, that they are dying and how long they have to live.

As part of their treatment, she asks patients to draw a picture and the drawing is then interpreted to reach a better understanding of how long the person has to live and how they feel about that return.

While holistic practices, which are important to her treatment, are criticized by some, Dr. Kubler-Ross said that such medicine "does not throw away all the old things. We have learned that we may know a whole lot up here," she says pointing to her head, "but the patient knows a lot in here," she points to her heart.

Patients who are dying know what is happening, she contends. However, she said that when she begins treatment of a patient knowing that they might have a terminal illness, she asks them what type of person they are and "they'll want to be told the news — either good or bad."

Sometimes, she has been told by the physician in charge of a case not to tell a patient the truth. In those instances, she employs "tricks of the trade, like saying, 'how long have you known.'"

Most patients are relieved to hear the truth, she said. Then, the patients should preferably tell her family.

It is important "that you don't psychoanalyze patients. If you try to, they'll tell you to scram," Dr. Kubler-Ross said.

When a patient adjusts to the knowledge that he is dying, he then must settle "unfinished business" that could include dealing with emotions that were repressed in childhood.

According to Dr. Kubler-Ross, such repression leads not only to suicide (particularly disturbing to her is the high suicide rate among children which she said is the third cause of death in youngsters), but also is the cause of crime.

"If people repressed to cope with unfinished business, crime would decrease, she contends."

Throughout her lecture, which lasted more than three hours, Dr. Kubler-Ross struck on various of her concepts for dealing with problems.

"Everyone is responsible for accepting the consequences of their choices in life," she said. Further, she contends that unhappy people should change the things that dissatisfy them, including jobs.

"There is no such thing as burn-out," she argued. "If you're not negative, you can work 17 hours a day, seven days a week," she said. When others "push your buttons" and cause anger, it is important to simply dismiss the negative emotions.

"You have to learn that other people's opinions of you are their own problem. For her own part, Dr. Kubler-Ross gets away from problems by working in her garden at her home in California where she is a "mini-farmer."

The merit of her teachings is most evident in her own life. Although she spends only about one day a week at home, she still manages to smile a lot and finds that "life is very simple, very beautiful if you only do what you love to do."

South-Western Cable TV, Inc., and the city council have each selected arbitrators to represent them in the two-year basic rate dispute between the cable company and the city. The city has refused to grant either a $1 or $2 monthly increase in basic cable rates, which the city regulates according to its cable franchise.

South-Western has chosen Dr. Joseph J. Edwards, professor of mass communications, Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, and Homer A. Huber, 2445 Willow Ave., board member of the Tri-County Port District and the Madison County Regional Board of School Trustees. The city has selected Frank L. Kraus, 2385 Spaulding Ave., assistant superintendent of schools, and Edward S. Besserman, 301 Maryville Road, deputy coroner and manager of Bob Thomas Memorial Mortuaries, Ltd. A fifth arbitrator must be named by the other four within the next 20 days. They will then have 15 days to decide for or against the rate request.

The Illinois Public Action Council will be allowed to discuss economic issues and solicit donations in a door-to-door campaign after a close, 74 council vote. Some aldermen objected to the fund drive aspect of the group's two-week residential campaign set for this month. Others doubted the effectiveness of the organization. Scott Miller, Public Action speaker, cited his group's record of intervention to slow utility rate increases. He explained the group is a citizens' organization composed of labor unions, farmers, consumer organizations and minorities with its main goals to establish a fairer taxing system, seek affordable utility services, and promote job opportunities.

The Granite City Council of Senior Citizens has asked for a portion of the city's federal revenue-sharing funds to help support one-day bus trips and other projects. Due to limited funds, the senior group has even been forced to discontinue serving cookies during meetings, according to Juanita Crawley, president. The city, however, expects to slash with a budget deficit this year and does not anticipate any excess funds. Final funding decisions will be made on July 19 following a 7 p.m. public hearing on the budget at the Granite City Township Hall.

Attorney Leo Konzen, representing the A.O. Smith Corp., received immediate council approval of an ordinance amending the city's regulation of industrial revenue bonds. A.O. Smith is expected to soon ask the city for up to $30 million in industrial revenue bonds to reopen its local plant. According to Konzen, a new federal law requires either a voter referendum or public hearing before municipalities can issue the tax-exempt industrial revenue bonds. The council voted to suspend its rules — requiring two readings of a law before passage — and approved an amendment that includes a public hearing provision that allows the referendum requirement. Konzen said swift action on the amendment was needed to allow A.O. Smith time to hold a hearing prior to its bond request.

Aldermen voted to suspend the rules again to give final approval for a no-parking zone that will extend several feet from the intersection of 14th Street and Grand Avenue. Rules also were suspended to repeal two ordinances that limited parking near 2305 and 2339 Illinois Ave. The ordinance committee passed on first reading an ordinance for a stop sign to be erected at Revere's Route at its intersection with Roxbury Court. In another traffic matter, First Ward Alderman Everett Morien said he would like the council to consider eliminating several stop signs posted along Delmar Avenue.

The demolition contract for a building at 801-3 Niedringhaus Ave. was awarded to the second lowest bidder, C.D. Peters Construction Co., after the council moved to cancel the contract awarded earlier to J.D. Hauling and Wrecking Co. According to Michael J. DeBuzick, the action was prompted by the contractor's alleged failure to complete the work within the time allowed.

At 84, wins $81,000 yearly for 20 years

Bessie Wheelless, an 84-year-old woman who lives in a city-operated senior citizens center in Rockford, has won $1,620,000 by being the only person to match all six winning numbers in the July 2 lotto.

The mother of a 54-year-old son and a 50-year-old daughter, who both live in California, she bought her winning ticket at the Highlander Food Store, Rockford, a lottery ticket agent. The agent will receive one percent of the prize, more than $16,000, for selling her the ticket.

Mrs. Wheelless, the seventh lotto player to win more than $1 million, is the second from Rockford. On June 4, Rockford's Arthur Greene won $2 million.

The new winner retired from the Illinois Bell Telephone Company in 1964 after more than 40 years' service as an operator, a supervisor and a telephone instructor. Since her retirement, she has been involved in various activities in the residence in which she lives. Her only regular activity has been a daily trip to church.

Mrs. Wheelless said she had no idea what she would do with the money, which she will receive at the rate of $81,004 a year for 20 years.

The five other major lotto prize winners have come from the Chicago metropolitan area.

Many in poll favor tax credit for tuition

While half of St. Louis metropolitan area residents agree that federal income tax credits should be given to people who send their children to private schools, another two-fifths disagree.

This is one of the findings of the June 1983 poll conducted by the opinion research division of Fleishman-Hillard.

During an interview on a variety of social concerns, area residents were asked: Do you agree or disagree that federal income tax credits should be given to people who send their children to private schools?

Overall, 51 percent agreed with the statement and 49 percent disagreed. The other 7 percent said they didn't know.

School board considers budget matters

The Granite City School Board last week gave administrators authority to issue $1.5 million in second year tax anticipation warrants to be used for "emergency expenditures where an immediate cash outlay is required." The revolving funds are reimbursed on a monthly basis.

State law requires that revolving funds be redeposited to the school treasurer by June 30. The board also made several transfers in accounts so that the 1983-84 budget can be prepared in more detail than last year's budget.

Tuesday, July 5, the board will meet at 7 p.m. to consider the amended tentative budget, as required by law.

MITCHELL SCHOOL ATHLETIC HONORS

Tina Lynn Estabrook was the recipient of the "Best Girl Athlete" medal as a sixth grade pupil at Mitchell School. It was learned this week.

She received two first place ribbons for the 600-yard run and shuttle race and second place ribbons in the 50-yard dash and five arm hang. She also earned a President's Fitness award.

Tina will attend Grigsby Junior High School this fall.

PLEADS INNOCENT, SENT TO COUNTY

David Lynn Nicol, 43, of Vandellia, pleaded innocent to charges of disorderly conduct and battery in a court appearance at 3:10 p.m. Tuesday. Bond was set at $202 and a mittimus was issued. He was transferred Wednesday to the Madison County Jail at Edwardsville.

Nicol allegedly was involved in a disturbance at the Wilson Park carnival in which an Alton youth was knocked to the ground when Nicol ran into a crowd. The second charge related to an earlier incident when a Granite City woman allegedly was struck at a local tavern.

BURGLARS ENTER WILSON SCHOOL

An air conditioner was stolen from the window of the teacher's lounge at Wilson School, it was reported Tuesday by a custodian.

Entry into the building was gained by removing the unit after the intruders first broke a jalousie window in an attempt to get inside the kitchen, reports said.

An office also was entered and a secretary's desk was searched. An inventory was to be made to determine if other items were missing.

Nedd Tapp completes law enforcement class

Twenty-six recruits graduated last week from the 10-week basic law enforcement course at the Police Training Institute, University of Illinois. Among them was Nedwin J. Tapp of the Granite City Police Department.

Chief David J. Kelly of the Glenview Police Department was the graduation speaker. DuPage County Sheriff Richard P. Doria certified the class on behalf of the Illinois Local Governmental Law Enforcement Officers Training Board.

The institute, directed by Clifford W. Van Meter, is one of five police training academies in the state. It offers nine basic training courses for recruits and a dozen specialized courses for experienced officers. Its students are drawn from police and sheriff's departments throughout the state.

The basic law enforcement course provides 400 hours of state-mandated training for recruits with instruction in law, the police function and human behavior, patrol, patrol investigation, traffic and proficiency in such areas as first aid, radio, pulmonary resuscitation, firearms and defensive tactics.

Classes are held at the institute and in various departments around Illinois.

PROPERTY DAMAGED. Retha Owings, 32, of 611 Washington St., Madison, was charged with criminal damage to property and last week, she appeared before a judge, pleaded guilty, and was fined $100 and ordered to make restitution.
